*Similar to the residence halls, the theme houses are also subject to the college's room consolidation policy. This means if a house falls below the minimum number of residents for the house, students will be asked to find a replacement or accept a student that Residence Life places in the house. If no student is found to fill the space, the residents in the house may be required to split the cost of a missing housemate.

Statements - on a separate sheet, please answer the following questions:

1. These houses are intended to be theme houses not just student houses. What is the theme for your house? (Make sure this a theme that interests all residents signing up for this house.)
2. Recognizing that living in a theme house is a privilege what are the purpose and goals for your theme house?
3. Statement from each house member: (1-2 pages typed)
   - Why do you want to be a resident of this particular house, with this theme?
   - How will this housing option enhance your individual Waldorf College experience?

- What do you hope to take away and learn from your experience of living in this community?
- How do you intend to contribute to the viability of the theme house?

4. Outline specific programs that your theme house will conduct each month (from September to April) and a program for each semester. In order for the selection committee to be well informed, include all activities in as much detail as possible.
5. Part of the Waldorf College mission is service and giving back to the community, to this end each theme house must complete one educational activity or service project for the campus each semester. What two programs does your group plan to do?
6. Propose consequences that will apply to your house if members do not help with required monthly, educational and service programs are not completed
7. Preference of house (tours available upon request)
