

What can I do with a History Degree?

Historians in Education

College Professor
Junior-Senior High School Teacher
Park Ranger for National or State Parks & Monuments
Museum Curator
State History Coordinators in Education

Historians in Research and Records

Think Tank Partner and Writer
Document Collector or Preservation Specialist
Records Manager (Corporate, Public, or Private)
Museum Researcher or Exhibit Coordinator
Historical Society Representative or Director
Archivist or Librarian

Historians in Communication

Writer, Editor, or Publisher
Journalist
Documentary Specialist
Multimedia Specialist or Webmaster

Historians in Politics and Law

Lawyers, Paralegal, or Judge
Elected Official
Staff Member for Elected Official
National, State, County, or City Government Employee
Lobbyist or Special Interest Representative
Law Enforcement or Intelligence Officer (Police, FBI, CIA, NSA)
Military Officer

Historians in Business and Administration

Executive Officer or Management
Corporate Historian or Company Archivist
Statistics Manager or Institutional Research Director
Historian for Nonprofit Associations
Corporate Representative or Public Relations
Grant Writer

Sources: American Historical Association, Waldorf History Department